

A Message from the Superintendent

I hope everyone had a safe, relaxing and productive summer. As another new school year is upon us, Whitesboro's educators are committed to making the 2015-16 school year a great one for our students, families and community. Last year brought many accomplishments, and this year, the District will be working hard to build upon those successes. Some of the important things the District will continue to focus on for the 2015-16 school year include:

- Making our students college, career and citizen ready.
- Providing a safe and secure environment conducive to learning.
- Improve District-to-Parent communication. Please remember that the District, not any other source, is the best way to receive important and accurate information concerning your child, school programs, policies, and procedures. Although convenient and widely used, information often found on social media is inaccurate.
- Technology upgrades, including introduction of Google Apps for Education and Google Classroom at the high school, installation of a new wireless network to support access to instructional resources from mobile devices throughout the District and many new desktop PCs, teacher laptops, projectors, SMART Boards and Chromebook carts in both classrooms and computer labs.

I look forward to the challenges this new school year will bring and I wish everyone much success.

Dave Langone

Superintendent of Schools